Dedication John Peterson

It is difficult to put into words the impact Mr. Peterson has had at Rutland High School. When you speak with any of his former students, it is evident that he has made a difference in hundreds of lives. My friends and I still share fond memories from his classes and look back warmly on our time in his classroom. His passion for teaching is apparent to anyone who steps into his class. What drives him is his students. He constantly does whatever he can to ensure his students have the best experience they possibly can in high school. It will truly be an end of an era at Rutland High School when he leaves us next year. - Jason Caserino

Inspirational AP Exam Speech

I am giving each of you your own Ticonderoga #2 pencil, the finest writing implement made from natural materials known to mankind. Consider it your arrow as you do battle with the AP Examination tomorrow. We have been together all year, through good times and through hard times but tomorrow I cannot be with you. When you face the exam, I want you to remember the brave Cheyenne warriors of days gone by and say, "Hoka hey! I am not afraid!" Some of you will do very well, some of you will not do as well as you would like. But you have all made me very proud this year. Tomorrow, make my heart soar, like a hawk!

Dedication Ellie McGarry

Ellie McGarry is a dedicated, passionate educator who has been a champion for students with disabilities throughout her career. During her 28 years as Rutland City Public School's Director of Student Support Services, she has led the district in creating innovative programs that provided effective instruction to meet both the academic and social emotional needs of all students. Her collaboration with community partners and advocacy at the state and national level helped countless students receive the support and services they needed to find success.

PLACE

PLACE (Promoting Learning by Activating Community Engagement) is a work-based learning program which gives students at Rutland High School the opportunity to intern at a place of employment for a total of 50-60 hours over the course of an academic semester. Each student has a community mentor who helps them learn about the educational requirements, career paths, and daily tasks at their chosen PLACement. Students log their hours, journal about their experiences, and complete a final service learning project through which they give back to their community mentors in some concrete way.
